Excited fans greet Palin in Beantown

Former GOP VP pick gets warm welcome Autographs, photos, media constant part of Palin's tour

She's been criticized, made fun of and has her fair share of detractors, but Sarah Palin received a warm welcome from many fans as she walked the Freedom Trail on Thursday.

"This is the greatest thing," said Rosemary Mwaura, 19, who clutched her camera as the former Republican vice presidential nominee boarded her bus. However, Mwaura said she would not describe herself as a Palin supporter. "It's interesting to see how politicians work. She's a strong woman who is fighting for what she believes in."

Palin, her parents and daughter Piper stayed at the Marriott Long Wharf hotel and spent about three hours touring the Freedom Trail in the North End and Charlestown on Thursday morning.

Her tour bus left just after noon and headed for New Hampshire.

Palin had a small contingent of staffers, which was greatly outnumbered by the local and national media following her. John Oliver, of the "Daily Show," was also on the Palin trail.

Along her tour through Boston, Palin signed autographs for school children, some who jumped up and down when she stopped to talk to them outside the Old North Church.

Traffic on Hanover Street paused momentarily as a man stopped Palin to take a picture with her in the middle of a crosswalk.

One woman even asked Palin to sign a baseball.

"Go Sox," Palin said.

Police warn fans of fake Stanley Cup finals tickets

BOSTON. Boston police issued a reminder Thursday for fans to be wary of purchasing counterfeit Stanley Cup finals tickets.

"Fans who purchase tickets from a secondary source are taking a chance," the warning said.

Massachusetts surveys damage of fatal tornadoes

Massachusetts residents on Thursday dug out from damage left by tornadoes that ripped through the state, killing at least four people.

Among those who died in Wednesday's storms was a woman who saved her 15-year-old daughter by climbing on top of her in a bathtub in West Springfield, Gov. Deval Patrick said.

"She crawled in on top of her to protect her, but just then, the ceiling collapsed. The daughter survived but the mother did not," he said at a news conference.

Search and rescue teams combed through debris in case any victims were trapped from the twisters that injured at least 200 people.

"In 45 years in public service, I have never seen this kind of damage or devastation in Massachusetts."
U.S. SEN. JOHN KERRY, D-MASS.

"We have a lot of folks doing search and rescue, dealing with debris piles and things today, so that number could change," said Peter Judge, spokesman for the Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency. "We'll keep our fingers crossed."

The late-afternoon tornadoes, moving west to east, tore through some 19 communities, including Springfield, about 90 miles west of Boston, bringing high winds, rain, large hail stones, thunder and lightning.

Tornadoes are uncommon, but not unheard of, in New England — but Lou Grimaldi said he knew what to do when he saw the first twister as he looked out of his heating and cooling business near the east bank of the Connecticut River on Wednesday afternoon.

"I saw the swirling wind and the debris," Grimaldi said. "Hearing the noise makes you take cover." REUTERS

Romney kicks off 2012 bid

GETTY IMAGES

Mitt Romney, the multimillionaire former governor of Massachusetts, kicked off his second bid for the White House Thursday with a hard-hitting economic message charging that "Barack Obama has failed America."

"I'm Mitt Romney. I believe in America. And I'm running for president," Romney said to cheers during an 18-minute speech in Stratham, N.H.

The Republican front-runner so far, Romney started his campaign in this early voting state where a win in February's primary election is crucial to his chance of winning the party nomination to face President Barack Obama in the November 2012 election. REUTERS

Feds track Gmail hack; China denial

Washington scrambled on Thursday to assess whether security had been compromised after Google revealed a major hacker attack targeting U.S. officials that the Internet giant pegged to China.

"These allegations are very serious," Secretary of State Hillary Clinton told reporters a day after the Internet giant said it had disrupted a campaign aimed at stealing passwords of hundreds of Google e-mail account holders, including senior U.S. government officials, Chinese activists and journalists.

Google's announcement fuels debate in Washington over China's intentions in cyberspace, which the United States has identified as a potential flashpoint for future conflict.

Neither Google nor the U.S. government has said the Chinese government was behind the attacks, and the U.S. State Department said it had not raised the issue with Beijing. Beijing nevertheless reacted angrily to Google's charge, saying it was "unacceptable" to blame China. REUTERS

'The Tree of Life'
Director: Terrence Malick
Cast: Brad Pitt, Jessica Chastain, Sean Penn
Rating: PG-13
Grade: ❶❷❸❹⓿
Often described as a "visual poem," this nonlinear story meanders through more than two hours very slowly. A hushed child's voice recites abstract verses over gorgeous scenery, so many times that towards the end, as you become fidgety, the device might start to lose its effect. Some will find this movie pompous, self-important and too arty. Others will find it to be one of the most amazing films they've ever seen. But one thing's for sure, this ain't no "Pirates."

HEIDI PATALANO

Inside the mind of MAGNETO

Michael Fassbender gets his big break in 'X-Men: First Class'
Metro sat down for a revealing one-on-one

Michael Fassbender is about to have his big moment. Once a lauded television and indie film actor, the Irishman has graduated to working with auteurs like Quentin Tarantino (in "Inglourious Basterds") and is rumored to be the next James Bond. But Fassbender's first big mainstream role is "X-Men: First Class," which depicts the inception of the Marvel heroes (and baddies), set in the 1960s. The charming 34-year-old makes for one sexy sometimes-villain Magneto. He explained to us his deep powers of concentration.

COURTESY OF 20TH CENTURY FOX

▶ Fassbender demonstrates Magneto's struggle to, um, harness his power in "X-Men: First Class."

If you could have one super power, what would it be?
I reckon flying would have to be up there just because it's one thing I can't do. ... When I was 5 years old, I had a Superman suit, and I used to practice flying. I was convinced I would be able to fly. So I would like to be able to fly and I would like to have a tail as well.

Oh, for what purpose?
I think it's kind of kinky. Kidding. I like the idea of being able to balance on things and they also look quite nice, don't they? They're aesthetically pleasing. I could be drinking a milkshake independently now with my hands free.

How many X-Men sequels are you contracted for?
Oh, they own me, dude. They've got me for two options so they definitely have the option to use me and to be honest with you, I'd be very excited to continue the journey with it. James [McAvoy] and I have been talking about it over the last few days, about where we could go with the next one. We definitely want to be involved from the ground floor up on that.

Could you see yourself in the might-be sequels, continuing to walk the line between good guy and bad guy?
For sure. It's far more interesting and it happens like that in the comic books. There's a respect that continues between these two characters that I think is very interesting.

Much of your performance demands a lot of intense cringing, because you move things with your mind ...
Constipation, yes. I know, I was watching it last night thinking, "God, really. Just get on with it, man. Eat some prunes." ... What I was interested in doing here was that he doesn't really know the full effect of his powers, so it's all a learning process and it is a bit messy. ... But yeah, there were a few people laughing in the theater last night. I was like, "Shut up, all right? Give me a break, OK? You try f—ing lifting a submarine, smartass."

▶ McKellen

The Ian McKellen connection

"The thing is, I was thinking to myself, 'Oh s—, the fans are not going to be happy,' because [McKellen], I think, goes down as one of the No. 1 villains in all superhero films," Fassbender explains of filling the knighted actor's shoes. "But then I thought I'd bring something fresh. I want to make bold choices. Hopefully there would be something new and still have the quality that people recognize of Magneto for the fans."

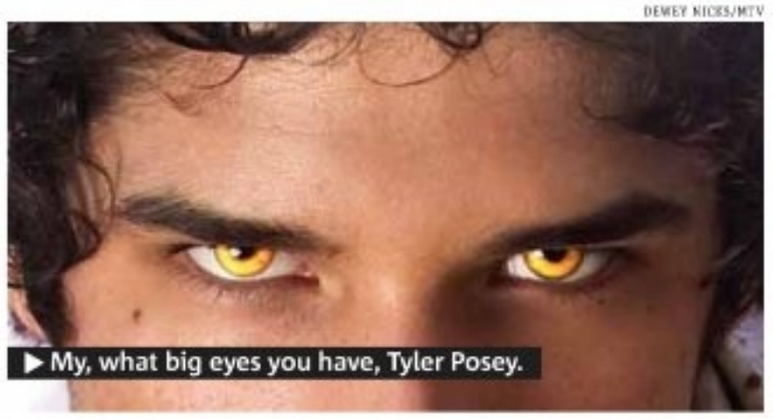
Posey: An actor in wolf's clothing

MTV's 'Teen Wolf' star Tyler Posey on his 'lupine' looks and the strange sex appeal of Jack Nicholson

DEWEY NICKS/MTV



My, what big eyes you have, Tyler Posey.

There's just something about Tyler Posey that makes people think of werewolves. Not only is he leading MTV's new, darker series version of "Teen Wolf," but the 19-year-old California native was also considered for the role of shape-changing Jacob Black in the "Twilight" films — a role that eventually went to Taylor Lautner.

"I guess, according to MTV, I have a lupine look, which I had no idea what that meant," he says.

Posey is quick to point out this TV "Teen Wolf" doesn't have a lot in common with the original film — which came out before Posey and most of its target audience were born — including how his character looks during a full moon. "The big movie I really looked at for inspiration was 'Wolf' with Jack Nicholson, because it's totally our genre," he says. "It's funny, there's romance in it, and his wolf looks a lot more like ours. It's more smooth and … was it sexy? I don't want to call Jack Nicholson sexy. But he is."

While other actors might be canceling their Internet service to avoid reading scathing message-board rants — which "Teen Wolf" was generating long before its premiere — Posey refuses to hide. "I like hearing reviews, I like hearing what people have to say," he says. "I want to keep track of the show, see what people think. Nothing deters me. If people say bad reviews, it's just like, I like the show. That's what matters, right?"

Besides, Posey knows he has supporters. "I'm Twittering like crazy," he says. "I'm pretty good with trying to stay in contact with my fans. Like, every single person that talks to me I try to message back. That's one of my favorite things about Twitter. I feel like I can change the world. And I'm going to, damn it, one tweet at a time."

New cookbook takes the guesswork out of Japanese cooking • Three easy marinades to add a kick to your summer meats, fish and vegetables

Weekend recipes

Cookout season is in full swing, and if you're looking for a twist on your standard hamburgers and hot dogs, pick up Tadashi Ono and Harris Salat's new cookbook, "The Japanese Grill." Ono, the executive chef at New York City's Matsuri, and Salat, a food writer for The New York Times, collaborated on recipes like Grilled Lobster with Ponzu Brown Butter or Skirt Steak with Red Miso. Add some flair to your steak, seafood and veggies with these three simple marinades from their book:

FOR RED MEATS:

Garlic-Soy Sauce Marinade

Ingredients:

½ cup soy sauce
8 cloves garlic, grated
¼ cup olive oil
2 teaspoons freshly ground black pepper

Preparation:

Whisk all ingredients in a small bowl. This marinade can keep in the refrigerator for up to two weeks. Just mix again before using it.

FOR CHICKEN, PORK AND FISH:

Yuzu Kosho Marinade

Ingredients:

2 tablespoons red yuzu kosho (found at Japanese markets and Amazon.com)
2 tablespoons soy sauce
½ cup olive oil

Preparation:

Whisk all ingredients in a small bowl. This marinade can keep in the refrigerator for up to two weeks. Just mix again before using it.

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

The feed ...

▶ Usually, I check in with Hollywood; but on Fridays, I reprint some of the week's best Tweets by Word fans. Feel free to join in on the Twitter Word fest by letting me what you think @dorothyatmetro.

This week, @mfstaples has an unpleasant train ride (thank goodness he had Metro!), @beauxyeux64 is too nice for words, @v0xtheriot corrected me about the Anthony Weiner controversy and @JohnnyGoodtimes gives me some advice about marriage.

▶ @mfstaples just on a broken down train and being stuck to a man that smelled/looked like a gorilla, the usual!

▶ @beauxyeux64 Hi Dorothy. I look forward to your column each day in the Philly Metro edition.

▶ @v0xtheriot weiner technically showed his briefs. Too afraid to show his own weiner.

▶ @Johnny Goodtimes: a friend of mine said it best: being married is a never-ending battle for the moral high ground.

Rep. Anthony Weiner, the man of the Twitter hour.

Questlove, Black Thought: Still in love with Jimmy Fallon

When it was announced that the seminal hip-hop group the Roots would be Jimmy Fallon's house band on "Late Night with Jimmy Fallon," many critics and fans were worried that the group, one of the coolest touring bands around, would lose some of their hard-earned cred by going so mainstream (and taking a backseat to Fallon's hosting). Well, a little more than two years later, it's fair to say it's a beautiful union — the Philly natives have gotten a ton of exposure, Fallon's cool quotient is through the roof and, most importantly, the music hasn't suffered.

"I always felt like what goes around comes around," says Black Thought, who, along with drummer Questlove, attended a press event Wednesday night in New York City promoting Philly. "So enter Jimmy Fallon — he's one of the most sincere people I've met that is remotely related to Hollywood. Being this likable — I just knew he would take off once America got to know him."

Questlove agrees that it was just a matter of time before doubters were convinced the partnership was a good idea: "We knew out of the gate what kind of adversarial obstacles were going to come our way from the blogosphere and critics. But I wasn't surprised [about our success], simply because we're so stubborn with executing our vision. When we're in those do-or-die moments, there is zero room for failure."

The Roots have done quite the opposite from faltering. Though the band has admittedly had to cut back on their touring schedule, their hallmark artistry hasn't been diminished. "I felt like the biggest question that might arise with us on the show is, 'Would the music change?'" says Black Thought. "It hasn't, and we haven't lowered the bar. If anything, we've raised the bar. We didn't lose a part of the Roots; nothing is missing."

Wiener dogs: More adorableness, less scandal

Our version of 'Weinergate'

If only "Weinergate" referred to this wiener dog pic instead of the crotch-shot New York Rep. Anthony Weiner allegedly tweeted to a follower, he wouldn't be in this mess. Note to men: Women usually respond better to hilarious photos of dogs in costumes rather than shots of your dingy undies, anyway.

Talking points

▶ Fassbenber and Kravitz at the premiere of "X-Men: First Class"

A new relationship in town

"X-Men: First Class" co-stars Michael Fassbender and Zoe Kravitz have been turning heads in New York lately as the pair reportedly can't keep their hands off each other, according to Us Weekly. In fact, sources say, the two actors reportedly began dating during production on their film last year but have been keeping the romance under wraps. "They're really low-key, but they have a great time together just talking music or movies. They really didn't want to be a topic of conversation during the press for 'X-Men,'" a source says, adding that Kravitz tends to wear the pants in the relationship: "For how good-looking and smart he is, Michael's pretty shy. She is actually the one taking care of him most the time. She really respects his talent."

Nick Cannon: My daughter's already a diva!

While they're barely a month old, Nick Cannon insists he and Mariah Carey's newborn twins already have clear personalities, he tells Perez Hilton. "My son is definitely more like me. He's chill, laid back," Cannon says of Monroe, while adding that Monroe's sister, Moroccan, is a bit more vocal: "My daughter, that's her mother's child, and she is like a diva," Cannon says. "When she wants something, she's instantly crying. She's going to be a little handful."

Horoscope

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. No one knows better than you how vital it is to keep your financial affairs in good order. If you let your expenditures exceed your earnings, you'll only have yourself to blame.
♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Guard against inclinations to ignore a scheduled routine. If you decide to run your life in a helter-skelter manner, it isn't likely you'll do a thing.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Avoid injecting additional negative factors into something that may already be going badly. Getting angry and losing your temper won't help, but it will pour more fuel on the fire.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Ignoring the request for a favor from someone who has helped you out many times in the past will reflect badly on you. Suggest another time if it is impossible for you to help out now.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Don't fret over the work at hand. Begin from where you are and see where it takes you. To do nothing at all will leave you in a worse state of affairs.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Usually you have the courage of your convictions; but if you allow self-doubts to plague you, you won't be able to see beyond the impediments. Get back in character.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Don't put yourself in a position where the only way you'll be able to complete what you're doing is to ask for help. People can't always stop what they're doing in order to comply.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Avoid teaming up with someone whose goals and objectives are totally different from yours. All you're apt to accomplish is the loss of your temper and a good ally with it.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. If you think you can breeze through an assignment unscathed where others have tried and failed, give it a go — but don't be unduly disappointed if it proves to be too much.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. It is good to think in positive tones, but resist a temptation to take on a troublesome assignment unless you have a totally new way of approaching it.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Bend a bit, if it will appease someone who is important in your life, as long as you're not violating your conscience. Hopefully, this person will do the same for you when you are in need.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Even though a co-worker might tax your patience and good temperament, try to be tolerant and understanding of his or her behavior, especially if it's unusual for this person.

Open women's final set

Francesca Schiavone and Li Na won their French Open women's semifinals Thursday, setting up a Saturday championship clash between the Nos. 5 and 6 seeds.

Schiavone, the defending champion, overwhelmed Marion Bartoli, 6-3, 6-3.

Li became the first Chinese player to reach the French Open final when she knocked off Maria Sharapova, 6-4, 7-5.

Stars in the semis

The French Open couldn't have asked for two better men's semifinals Friday.

Top-seeded Rafael Nadal will square off with British hope Andy Murray, the No. 4 overall seed.

On the other side, it's unbeaten No. 2 Novak Djokovic against No. 3 Roger Federer.

US-Spain at Foxborough

The U.S. men's national soccer team will host World Cup champion Spain in an exhibition match Saturday at Gillette Stadium (4:30 p.m., ESPN).

More than 57,500 tickets have been sold for the game; that's a record for a USMNT match in New England. The old mark was 57,407 for a Mexico game in 1997.

In the right spot?

These Bruins thrive off adversity That's a good thing, since Game 1 was the definition of it Boston had better come through on Saturday

Don't tell the Bruins about teams trailing 1-0 in the Stanley Cup finals: Since going best-of-seven in 1939, the Game 1 winner has won the series at a 77 percent clip.

Don't tell the Bruins about losing a 1-0 game in the finals: Of the past 10 teams to win 1-0, eight have gone on to win it all.

Then again, these are the Bruins, a team that has thrived on adversity all postseason. And nothing says adversity more than losing Wednesday's series opener on Raffi Torres' goal with 18.5 seconds left in regulation.

Going into Saturday's Game 2, they have the Canucks right where they want them.

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Adding insult to injury, Alex Burrows, left, wasn't suspended for biting Patrice Bergeron's finger. Read more on that at www.metro.us.

"You lose a game, we know how important that loss becomes," Bruins coach Claude Julien said. "But right now what's more important is not [Wednesday's] loss, but how we're going to react to it on Saturday."

"Obviously we're not happy. Playing an OK game for 59 minutes wasn't good enough."
PATRICE BERGERON

There is much for Boston to digest after the Game 1 gut-punch. As well as the Bruins played for the first 59:41, the adjustments continue.

The Bruins, who dominated the action early, must find a way to contain the explosive Canucks, who got the better of the run of play late. Although neither team scored with a man advantage in Game 1, the Canucks' ability to dominate 5-on-5 makes the B's special teams an even bigger factor.

B at Canucks

- The situation
  Raffi Torres' goal 19:41 into the third period Wednesday put the B's in a 1-0 series hole. A loss Saturday would all but end Boston's Cup hopes.
- The line
  The Canucks are -195 money line favorites, with the B's at +170, for Game 2.
- The key
  The B's desperately need to stay disciplined on the defensive end. It took 59 3/4 minutes Wednesday, but we all saw what the Canucks are capable of with the puck. Plus, more discipline means fewer penalties; you can't expect the Vancouver power play to stay quiet for long.
- What's next
  Game 3 is Monday at the Garden (8 p.m., VS., 98.5 FM).
- The pick
  The Canucks will build off their Game 1 momentum in Game 2. Vancouver, 3-1
